

• STAY SAFE • BE KIND •

Every Thursday evening at 8pm, people throughout the whole of the UK open the windows and doors of their homes and clap for all of the key workers that have kept the country going. We clap and make a noise to show our appreciation for all of the people that work in the hospitals such as the nurses, the doctors, the porters, the cleaners, all of the people that work in and for food shops such as the delivery drivers and the shop workers, all of the people that work in schools, the police officers, the fire service, ambulance workers, people who work for transports companies such as bus drivers and tube drivers and all of the people that work in the care homes looking after the elderly and other people who need help.

There are many others too.

Your holiday challenge is to make an instrument that you can use to make a noise on Thursday at 8pm.

Have a think. Talk about what you could use, what your design is going to look like and what sound you want to make.

You could use recycled materials.

You could use items in your home.

Think about what you could use to make a louder sound.

Think about how could you decorate your design.

You could draw a plan of your design before you make it.

Have fun making the most noise with your instrument on Thursday at 8pm.
